At the beginning of each SUUSI Week, we march in our Banner Parade to show all the far-flung places we come from and gather for a kick-off pep rally.

Ingathering is an energetic, fun, all-ages introduction to SUUSI. We learn about our coming week together and remind ourselves of what it means to be in intentional, covenanted community—and also in our sweet SUUSI spot of joyous faces and awesome music!

Afterward, all are invited to an ice-cream social to reconnect with old friends and meet brand new ones (no one will be turned away, but please register for this event if you plan to go, to assist with planning).

Workshops

The heart of SUUSI is the wide variety of workshops. All of them are led by SUUSI participants, and they change from year to year, depending on what people propose. Arts and crafts, philosophy, exercise, games, music, history, self-improvement, silliness, food and drinks, and anything else you can imagine can be found at SUUSI. The majority of workshops are scheduled either from 10 am to noon or 1:30 pm to 3:30 pm, but some take place in the evenings or even the middle of the night. Many are just one session, though some continue through the week. You might want to fill your whole schedule, but it's wise to leave some room for relaxing and discovering all the rest SUUSI has to offer.

Nature Trips

Another one of SUUSI's core features is our Nature Trips. Every day, starting in the early morning, vans shuttle participants to the wondrous native beauty of western Virginia and environs. There are hikes and walks of all difficulty levels, canoeing and tubing, caving, biking, foraging, horseback riding, as well as tours, dining, and other discovery trips. Whether you go with friends you know or people you just met, you'll remember your experiences together forever.

Volunteering

All through the week, everything at SUUSI runs on volunteers. No one at SUUSI is paid for the work they do, and everyone chips in to make it a great experience. One of the best ways to connect with other people at SUUSI is to work side by side, and there are tasks available for all interests and skill levels. It's easy to sign up for a shift or two when you register and integrate it into your week ahead of time!

Books & Bazaar

THE SUUSI Books & Bazaar is a special place to find amazing books for all ages, copies of the incredible music you will be hearing throughout the week, and a wonderful array of fun items and SUUSI memorabilia such as T-shirts, lanyards, reusable water bottles & coffee mugs, bumper stickers, temporary hair color, etc.

Many creative people and top-notch artisans come to SUUSI and bring handmade goods in many media—including (but certainly not limited to) jewelry, floral designs, fabric and fiber art, stained glass, mosaics, wood, paper, metal, and ceramic creations. Support them, attend book signings and mini-concerts, and buy raffle tickets to raise money for SUUSIships.

Concert Hour

Every year, three musical artists join us at SUUSI to perform Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights at 8 pm. These singers and songwriters share a piece of their soul with us, and usually lead workshops, join in worship, and participate in SUUSI with the rest of us.

Thursday night is usually an opportunity for the School of Rock workshop to show off their stuff, but you never know what sort of performance might develop until it happens!

Cabaret

Cabaret is our nightly homegrown live music venue. It's an intergenerational, multi-faceted, mixed bag of evening entertainment. We welcome musicians, poets, actors, dancers and instrumentalists from the SUUSI community to perform. To sign-up to perform at Sunday's Open Mic Cabaret, be sure to stop by the Nightlife table at check-in on Sunday!

Do you want to perform at Cabaret during the rest of the week? Many of those who perform on Sunday night at the open mic will be asked back to do sets during Cabaret on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday evening.

Jamboree is our special Friday performance time where two or more folks who have never performed together before do so for the first time on the Cabaret stage. It's also the time when workshops and classes get to perform. It's amazing what can get pulled together in less than a week!

TWOB (Friday evening)

The can't-miss event at the end of the week is the annual musical performed by Teens Way Off Broadway. It's always filled with singing, dancing, jokes, pop-culture references, and a ton of heart. TWOB is also a lens on SUUSI itself, the struggles of big teen feelings, and a lesson to bring us all together. You might not get all the references at your first TWOB, but as you attend more SUUSIs you will recognized recurring jokes, themes, characters, and messages. The show runs a little less than an hour and is fun for all ages. The title and theme is a closely-guarded secret—watch the SUUSI NUUS for hints throughout the week. 2026 will be the fortieth TWOB.
